Taft-Hartley Law Boards To Give Report

Will Tell JFK of Progress In Dock, Aerospace Walkouts

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy gets reports today from two Taft-Hartley law emergency boards he named in stopping strikes by East Coast dock employees and Lockheed aerospace workers.

In another development related to a major labor controversy chiefs of the five operating unions on the nation's railroads gathered here for a huddle to determine their next legal step in fighting worker layoffs threatened by the carriers.

Of the three disputes a renewed strike by the 60,000 dock workers appears to be the most imminent. The workers ended an earlier strike after the administration on Oct. 6 obtained an 80-day injunction under the Taft-Hartley emergency provisions.

The emergency board studying this case is expected to report to the White House that there still is a tight deadlock between the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, and shipowning and stevedore firms.

The next step will be a vote on the employers' last settlement offer, rejected by the union. A worker turnout of the offer, which officials say they expect, will mean a real threat of a pier strike on Atlantic and Gulf coasts on Dec. 23 when the 80-day injunction runs out.

The Lockheed labor dispute is in an earlier stage of development. Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley provisions in this case last Wednesday to end a walkout that had started earlier that day. On Thursday, the striking International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, called off its walkout at the government's request.

The report from the Lockheed emergency board is expected simply to recite a negotiating deadlock. It is strictly a formality that, under the law, will enable the government to go ahead with application for an 80-day court injunction barring a further strike.

The time lag will enable government mediators and the special board headed by Prof. Arthur M. Ross, director of the University of California Institute of Industrial Relations, to try new

Yule Mail Record Here Predicted

Predicting an all-time mail handling record here this Christmas season, Postmaster Ray Reasbeck urges residents to get their cards and parcels in the mail early.

Reasbeck said it appears as though Christmas mail will far exceed the 750,000 pieces of mail that were dispatched and delivered in the holiday season of 1961.

Hours of the service windows at the post office have been extended from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, Monday through Saturday, until Christmas, Reasbeck announced.

The windows also will be open Sunday, Dec. 16, from 1 to 5 p.m. The postmaster said Christmas presents should be mailed by Dec. 10, Christmas cards for out of town delivery should be sent before Dec. 15 and those for local addresses should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

Reasbeck urges residents to secure free labels at the post office, denoting whether cards are for delivery in town or out of town.

He said the time to bring parcels to the postal windows to avoid the noon hour rush are before 10 a.m. or between 1:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Free-Loading Skunk Now Works for Meals

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A free-loading skunk has been sneaking at night into the camel, kangaroo and penguin cages at Philadelphia Zoo.

Zoo officials caught him Saturday night. They'll continue to feed him, but the skunk will have to go on display and let folks look at him during the day, just like the zoo's other five skunks.

Toronto Man Gets City Utilities Post

William J. Thompson, superintendent of the Toronto, O., Water and Sewage Department, today was named Salem-utilities superintendent by the local Utilities Commission.

Thompson succeeds Aubrey Hayes, who will leave soon for Florida.

A native of Toronto, Thompson was graduated from Toronto High School and attended Ohio State University. A World War II veteran, he served in the Marines for four years. Before going into water and sewage work, Thompson was a construction worker.

Salem's new utilities superintendent is married and has two sons, Mark, 8, and Peter, 3.

Thompson is a member of F and AM Lodge 583 of Toronto, the American Legion, American Water Workers Association, the Eastern Ohio Conference on Water Pollution, and the Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and their youngsters are expected to move to Salem soon.

The Utilities Commission accepted the resignation of Hayes Nov. 12. Hayes, who came to Salem from New Concord in January 1953, and became the city's first utilities superintendent a year later, gave no reason for resigning.

Mound City Residents, Marshals May Clash

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP)—Federal Marshals meet here tonight to map strategy for their invasion of Mound City, a village where zealous town folk and farmers threaten "another Mississippi" to keep from turning over government records they have locked in a barricaded building.

The county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office was moved this year from Mound City, the county seat with a population of less than 200, to Herreid, population 633, eight miles north.

Late Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russians have begun taking their IL28 bombers out of Cuba, the Defense Department announced today.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester announced that the first of a reported 30 or more twin-jet bombers are in the process of being withdrawn.

Photographs taken by U.S. patrol planes indicate that the Russian ship Okhotsk was moving off the northern coast of Cuba on Saturday with three bomber fuselages visible on its deck, Sylvester told a news conference.

It's far and away the best-selling special stamp ever issued," said James F. Kelleher, information aide to Postmaster Gen. J. Edward Day. Kelleher said advance demand for the stamp was so great that Day ordered a record first printing of 500 million. The previous high for a special issue was 300 million for the Mercury astronaut stamp commemorating John H. Glenn Jr., space flight.

"We've already upped the Christmas order to 600 million," said Kelleher, "but now we face the possibility that we might not be able to print enough."

This is not the kind of problem the department anticipated when it announced last May that it would issue its first special Christmas stamp.

The greatest apprehension among postal officials then was that the stamp might provoke protests on grounds that it violated the principle of church-state separation.

Another fear, says Kelleher, was that it might antagonize the National Tuberculosis Association, which for years has sponsored the sale of Christmas seals as a fund-raising device.

Kelleher says the decision to issue the stamp was made by Day only after extensive inquiries indicated no widespread objection.

Designed by James Crawford, a Post Office Department artist, the four-cent stamp bears traditional Christmas symbols—slender candles and an evergreen wreath with red bow.

Tito Heads for Moscow To Talk With Nikita

Peking Radio Blasts Yugoslavia President For Neutral Policies

MOSCOW (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia, a Communist with strong neutralist overtones, headed today for Moscow talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev accompanied by the taunts and jibes of the Peking radio.

The Tito party, including his wife Jovanka, left Budapest by special train at midnight after a brief but ceremonious stay in the Hungarian capital.

Tito's trip was billed as a vacation. It was not known if he would visit other cities before sitting down with Kremlin leaders for a discussion that is sure to include the rift in Moscow-Peking relations and its meaning for world Communist affairs.

As Tito's expedition got under way, the Peking radio blasted the "Tito group" and "its notorious supra-bloc policy" as "traitors of the proletariat and running dogs of U.S. imperialism."

Tito and Khrushchev last met in New York in 1960 at meetings of the U.N. General Assembly. The Yugoslav leader last visited the Soviet Union in 1956, in an upward climb in relations between the two countries since the sharp break during the Stalin era.

Aside from foreign policy, Tito probably will discuss economic problems with his Soviet hosts. Yugoslavia has been undergoing a difficult period, with food shortages as one problem. The United States agreed last week to help by providing 1.2 million tons of wheat.

Chinese commentaries attacked Tito's role as a neutralist in East-West battles and grew par-

New Yule Stamp Is In Big Demand

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new Christmas stamp can't be printed fast enough to satisfy the demand, the Post Office Department reported today.

"It's far and away the best-selling special stamp ever issued," said James F. Kelleher, information aide to Postmaster Gen. J. Edward Day.

Kelleher said advance demand for the stamp was so great that Day ordered a record first printing of 500 million. The previous high for a special issue was 300 million for the Mercury astronaut stamp commemorating John H. Glenn Jr., space flight.

"We've already upped the Christmas order to 600 million," said Kelleher, "but now we face the possibility that we might not be able to print enough."

Realty Statements To Be Mailed In March

Annual Taxes On $10,000 Home To Go Up About $30

By VIRGINIA HURRAY

If you are an owner of property in Columbiana County, chances of your getting a bigger tax bill from Lisbon for 1962 than you did for 1961 are as good as a kite's chances for soaring in March.

And chances are that's about when you'll be receiving your next property tax statement, when kites are the Columbiana County skies in early March next year.

If you typify the greatest number of property owners in this county, your place is valued at $10,000 — and what you send to the county treasurer's office in two payments next year will amount to perhaps $30 more than what you paid in property taxes this year.

Ever since 1959-launched field work of the county-wide reappraisal of property was completed last December, most people's property here is listed as having greater financial worth than it did in the several years past. For the most part, only persons whose property devaluated drastically in recent years will see anything like a decrease in their next property tax statement — and cases like this are nearly as rare as corn shocks on the Village Green.

The reason your next tax bill from Lisbon is almost certain to be larger than the last one you received is that your property has lately been appraised at 1956 construction or replacement cost, whereas taxes you paid on the same property last year were computed on lower building and replacement costs of a decade earlier, 1946.

County Auditor Kenneth Bell says that in early January next year, as in other years, the Board of Revisions (which consists of the county auditor, the county treasurer, and the president of the board of county commissioners) will advertise that values have been set on all of the 60,000 parcels of land and 35,000 buildings in Columbiana County.

The advertising, by state regulation, must be done in two newspapers of general circulation for 10 consecutive days.

Records Open To Public
At the time of the advertising, records will be open to anyone interested in seeing the newly appraised value of his or her property.

Comments Auditor Bell: "People seldom come in then, though. It's after they get their tax statements that we get most complaints."

Property over the entire county is appraised at least $20,000,000 more than it was from 1952 to now.

The $20,000,000 figure was prescribed to the county auditor in 1952 by the state legislature.

scribed to the county auditor in March of this year by the state, which decrees that there be a property reappraisal in every Ohio county periodically for equalization purposes. (Actually, the state regulation calls for a reappraisal every six years, although there hadn't been one in Columbiana County since 1952.)

Auditor Bell points out: "Our duplicate in 1961 was about $209,000,000 for personal property, public utilities and real estate. This year, the county-wide duplicate will approximate $231,000,000."

Five Classifications

For taxing purposes, every residence is placed in one of five classifications which range from mansion to lake cottage.

The auditor declares: "Home owners affected most by the reappraisals are those whose houses were built within the last 10

U.S., Russia Differ On U.N. Financing

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A Soviet-U.S. clash is in prospect over a resolution to make all U.N. members legally responsible for sharing the cost of the U.N. forces in the Congo and the Middle East.

The resolution, sponsored by the United States and nine other countries, proposes acceptance of the World Court's July 20 advisory opinion that costs of the peace-keeping forces constitute "expenses of the organization" which the U.N. charter says "shall be borne by the members as apportioned" by the General Assembly.

A companion proposal, sponsored by the United States and eight other countries, calls for a 15-member working group to give the assembly suggestions by next April 1 on methods of financing similar costly U.N. peace-keeping operations in the future.

Brig. J. H. Price of Canada was to introduce both resolutions this afternoon in the assembly's 110-nation budgetary committee.

Soviet delegates said privately the Soviet Union would vote against accepting the court opinion and would never pay any part of the Congo or Middle East expenses no matter how the assembly voted.

East Liverpool Clerk's Trial Resumes

LISBON — Mrs. Frank Robinson, widow of the former East Liverpool water department superintendent, was slated to testify today in common pleas court in the trial of Roberta C. Smith of East Liverpool, ex-chief clerk accused of a $28,841 embezzlement.

Mrs. Robinson was summoned as a rebuttal witness by Prosecutor G. William Brokaw along with other city residents, including Frank O'Hanlon, County Election Board clerk, and Harold Peterson, water department distribution foreman.

Miss Smith has maintained that her covering up of water department losses in 1959-61 was done at the instruction of Mr. Robinson.

She returned to the witness stand this morning for resumption of a searching cross-examination by Brokaw.

The 40-year-old former chief clerk was on the stand for two hours Thursday to relate her version of fund shortages uncovered by a state examiner in November 1961.

Questioned by Atty. Frank Springer, her counsel, she said she began withholding the bill stubs at the direction of Robinson, then superintendent, after some $10,900 in deposits was discovered missing from the office vault in September 1959.

She maintained she does not believe Mr. Robinson—who died last year—was connected with the

Troops Thinned, Not Removed, President Says

Cabinet Members Firm Against Reds Cease-Fire Truce

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today the Chinese Communists may have thinned out the advance units of their invasion armies, but they have not withdrawn them.

The Chinese reported their troops had pulled back in at least one sector in partial fulfillment of Peking's one-sided cease-fire proclamation. Indian sources reported apparent withdrawal in another sector.

Nehru, however, told Parliament there were "signs of withdrawal in the rear—in the front positions they might have been thinned out, but they have not withdrawn."

He added that "the position is rather confused and therefore it is not easy to make a precise statement."

Two members of Nehru's Cabinet vowed an eventual resumption of the battle rather than acceptance of Peking's terms. India's frontline commanders took a gingerly approach to the delicate situation.

In other developments:

1. The Indian Communist party endorsed Nehru's position for settlement of the undeclared war.

2. U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith scheduled a trip to the headquarters city of Tezpur for a look at the situation and inspection of American weapons flown to the Indian army.

3. Nehru was disclosed to have assured Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan in a letter Nov. 12 that Western weapons received by the Indian army would

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo

Christmas Story
By Lucrece Beale

(Chapter One)
SHNOO'S ZOO

Once upon a time there was a man named Shnellingham Shnoo who loved animals more than anything in the world.

When he was a small boy he collected tropical fish and turtles and hamsters. As he grew older his collection grew to include raccoons and monkeys and snakes. By the time he was a young man he was collecting tigers and zebras and even giraffes!

Finally, Mr. Shnoo bought a zoo. It was an old run-down place owned by a man named Crookshank. This man did not love animals. He kept them in cages so small they hardly had room to turn around. He gave them very little food and he did not heat their houses and he never spoke kindly to them.

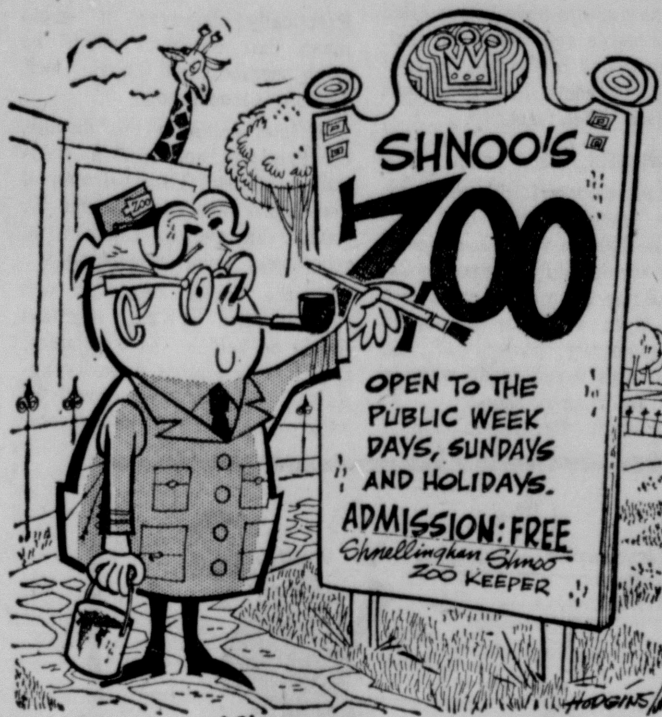

CROOKSHANK was glad to sell the zoo because he loved money as much as Mr. Shnoo loved animals. Mr. Shnoo was so anxious to help the animals that he agreed to pay much more than the zoo was worth. It was going to take him 10 years to pay for it. It was arranged that he would pay 1,000 gold pieces each year. If in any year he could not pay it he would lose both the zoo and all the gold he had already paid.

Furthermore, Crookshank insisted that until the zoo was entirely paid for, he himself would continue to live there.

These were very hard terms but Mr. Shnoo was so happy to have the zoo he did not mind too much. He immediately set about improving things for the animals.

He built an aquarium and filled it with strange fish from all over the world. For the birds, he built an enormous cage that was glassed in for winter. He enlarged the elephant house and built an outdoor pool for the hippopotamus. He erected a beautiful building for the monkeys and a separate house for the snakes.

He called the zoo Shnoo's Zoo and before long people began to come from far and wide to pay to see his animals, for word

Mr. Shnoo loved animals more than anything spread that they were the finest and happiest animals in the land.

NOW IT HAPPENED that the Queen of the land was very fond of animals. She let it be known that in order to encourage kindness to animals she intended to visit all the zoos before Christmas and to make an award of 1,000 gold pieces to the one she found the most deserving.

When Mr. Shnoo heard this he was very excited. He felt that no finer zoo than his existed and he was sure he would win the 1,000 gold pieces. He very much needed the gold because his last payment to Crookshank was due on Christmas eve and he had spent so much money building up the zoo that he really did not have the gold to pay.

Now he felt that his troubles would soon be over; the zoo would be all his; Crookshank would be gone, and he could do even finer things for his animals.

He rushed about the zoo spreading the good news. He promised Molly, the hippopotamus, he would buy her a husband; he told Herbert and Louise, the giraffes, he would build them a grape arbor; and to Blue Lady, the parakeet, he promised a bottomless bowl of honey.

AS HE LEFT the bird house he ran into Crookshank who handed him a letter.

"Come yesterday," said Crookshank. "I got it from the postman."

Mr. Shnoo looked and gasped. "Goodness! Why didn't you give it to me sooner?"

"Forgot," said Crookshank.

"Impossible!" cried Mr. Shnoo. He stared in awe at the envelope. There, scrawled in red letters, were the words: "To Mr. S. Shnoo at the Zoo from Mr. S. Claus at Santa Land."

17-Year-Old Seaman Is 'Executed' on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Writer Jerome Ross re-worked the same naval episode of 1842 that led Herman Melville to write his classic "Billy Budd," to make Sunday night's NBC Show of the Week, "Mutiny."

It was the story of a 17-year-old apprentice seaman who was "executed" for fomenting mutiny aboard a training ship. The gripping story was told in a series of flashbacks from the court-martial of the ship's captain to the events on the brig.

But where Melville made his book a sort of psychological morality tale exploring the many faces of evil, Ross converted the episode into a psychiatric exploration.

Thus, in Philip Cantrell Jr., the young apprentice (well played by Robert Walker) we had a senator's son, disobedient, scheming and—obviously from the outset—deeply disturbed. In other words, a juvenile delinquent.

Commander Jason Howell, played by Dana Andrews, represented authority, a good man who seemed helpless to cope with the boy and his mischief.

In the end, however, the fascinating build-up led only to let-down. In good, traditional television style, it turned out the boy was not really executed, but stumbled overboard into the sea. But it was an interesting, well-produced effort up to the last few minutes.

The most interesting program of the weekend was NBC's roundup of photographs, television news clips and comment under the title "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy."

Anyone who reads magazines, newspapers and watches television news shows must have been familiar with most of the material coordinated by the network's "special projects division" into a flattering, superficial portrait of the nation's attractive First Lady. William Shakespeare, shared with the President's wife the distinction of being the subject of a special hourlong program on Friday night.

NBC's producer Lou Hazam, who specializes in telling stories by turning the camera into the eye of the viewers, had a hard time converting modern England into that of the Bard of Avon.

The hour was a handsome literary travelogue played against a background of rich British accents quoting from the master's works as we followed him from country to city. But "Shakespeare, Soul of an Age" seemed precious and awe-struck when it should have been robust and vital.

Recommended tonight: Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, CBS, 7:30-8:30 (EST)—repeat performance of "The Firebird" and tribute to composer Igor Stravinsky as The Creative Performer."

Income Tax Earns Its Way

City Council's recent action in renewing the city income tax for two years was accomplished with a unanimous vote and no apparent public disapproval.

In short, the income tax has won acceptance, although there were some misgivings when the subject was first mentioned two years before Council placed the first law into effect Jan. 1, 1961. The five-tenths of one per cent assessment was renewed a year ago, with the new measure passed for a two-year period at the same amount. As it now stands, the tax will be in effect until Dec. 31, 1964.

Without the funds that the income tax produces, the city of Salem would be in a dire financial situation today. In fact, at the time the income tax was adopted City Council was facing an austere program because regular tax revenues were insufficient to carry on normal municipal operations.

Some communities which boast that they do not have an income tax forget that they have voted operating levies in effect. The income tax is fair and is relatively painless. Levies and bond issues are paid by property owners. The income tax is more equitable.

With the 60-40 split that is maintained on income tax funds, the city is able to allocate the greater portion to the important general fund and the difference for capital improvements. Improvements that otherwise would not have been carried out are complete today, with still others, including the West State St. overpass, in the offing.

So long as city officials use income tax money wisely, no one is likely to complain.

Anniversary For Dreaming

Twenty years ago, a demonstration under the west stands of Stag Field at the University of Chicago marked the beginning of the era of atomic energy.

During most of the time since it was proved on Dec. 2, 1942, that the release of atomic energy could be controlled, men have been preoccupied with the potentialities of destruction.

It has been an era of horror, only occasionally relieved by humanitarian side effects made possible by mastery of nuclear physics. But on the 20th anniversary of the historic occasion when 50 scientists watched the late Enrico Fermi's demonstration, there are more reasons than ever before for dreaming of benefits.

THE CONTROLLED release of nuclear energy makes it feasible to generate electricity in places where conventional fuel is not available. It guarantees a permanent source of energy for mankind. The future no longer is limited by reserves of coal and petroleum.

Nuclear energy can be harnessed to perform quickly tasks so vast they defy human ingenuity if ordinary tools must be used. It could dig canals, remove natural barriers, create harbors, provide power for space exploration.

It already is providing power for ships. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, believes nuclear physics has been developing at such a rapid rate that developments in the next 20 years are beyond human comprehension.

They will be like the developments in aviation once the foundation had been established. New ideas and designs now come along so rapidly they tumble over one another. Scarcely has the world learned to think of jet airliners as commonplace when it is encouraged to look ahead a few years to supersonic planes that will move at more than twice the speed of sound at cruising altitudes of 70,000 feet.

IT IS POSSIBLE, even probable that nuclear warfare has been made unthinkable by the very fact of its power to wipe out mankind if atomic energy ever is released in anger by rival powers.

Twenty years after the demonstration that proved energy could be released systematically, under human control, the prospects of control are brighter than they ever have been before. Gunpowder and dynamite did not wipe out civilization, as feared, either.

They Want Us to Be Quiet

The best minds in the speculation business are busy on the mystery of Moscow's mood of conciliation.

The Kremlin even has knuckled under on the touchy question of the United Nations secretary-general. It is reported in agreement with the United States that U Thant of Burma should be kept on the job until 1966.

This means Russia has abandoned its project to replace the secretary-general with a three-man directorship—a "troika." It means it has given up its brutal plan to take revenge on the United Nations for two secretaries, Trygve Lie and Dag Hammarskjöld, who stood firm against Russia in the Korean invasion and the attempt to take over the Congo.

WHY ARE THE mysterious men who run the Soviet Union and dominate the communist conspiracy following up their Cuban backdown with conciliation? Even Berlin seems to have been dropped from their list of things to needle the United States about? What could these people want?

Obviously, they want the United States to be quiet. They want the American people and their government to be off their mettle.

Whatever the Kremlin has given top priority to is more important than anything else.

This is the psychologically correct time, therefore, to upset the Kremlin by being obstreperous. It does not want the United States to be quiet because it loves this country or the American people.

It has something in the works that could be hurt by another burst of interest and activity like the U.S. reaction from discovery of a Soviet arsenal in Cuba after this had been denied in a series of official lies.

NOW WOULD be the best of all possible times to double and redouble the draft calls and mount an invasion of Cuba in the Florida peninsula.

Now would be the best time to chug up to the Berlin Wall with bulldozers and push it down.

What kind of a dumb-cluck country stretches out its neck when a would-be executioner tickles its ears and lulls it into submission?

When Russia wants the United States to be quiet, that should be our cue to raise the roof.

Just wishing things would change is like putting your thumb on the thermometer to make the room warmer.

Peaches are preserved in the beauty parlors and the kitchen.

Lots of college students learn to live quickly by the pen in letters home to Dad.

True to Form

Jacqueline Kennedy can't say I didn't warn her about people who would tear her apart for being herself when she became this country's First Lady.

They're being more savage than I thought they would be when this column carried my first affirmation of admiration for the new mistress of the White House. They're running true to form.

My reasoning then and now is that each presidential wife owes it to herself, her sex and her country to reflect her natural charm, intelligence and personality and not to pretend to be anything but what she is.

One of my favorite White House mistresses was Bess Truman, the small town housewife and silent partner in a husband-wife political team who continued to be as First Lady what she always had been before—a matronly, shrewd realist who knew when it was time to go back to Independence, Mo., and insisted on going—a sweet woman who gave the members of her bridge club back home a chance to share the White House with her on many occasions.

I liked Lou Henry Hoover, because she continued to be in the White House what she had been before her husband was tapped for political responsibility—a gracious hostess who had mastered the delicate art of bringing together the disparate elements of a widely varied society around the same dinner table.

I admired Eleanor Roosevelt for daring to be different, though she seemed to go out of her way to prove her point. Matter of fact, she was a shy woman who was over-compensating, the usual cause of over-self-assertion.

The danger that lurked for Jacqueline Kennedy was the possibility she would act like an older woman instead of the 31-year-old she was when she made her White House debut.

She knew what was in store behind the clucking tongues of the righteous ladies who would tear her apart if she continued to be what she always had been—a creature of extraordinary privilege, endowed with intelligence, vitality and good looks, equipped with an extraordinary education, savoir faire, linguistic ease, wide acquaintanceship, expensive tastes—and, of course, two small children. They would set their disapproving minds against her.

If you looked at her one way, you saw a charming young woman who would bring modernity to the White House.

If you looked at her another way, you saw a flibbertigibbet who cut across the grain of middle class conventionality and was destined to give middle class ladies of this nation screaming fits.

I chose to look at the charming young woman. I went overboard for Caroline. I enjoyed the idea of the people's fusty old executive mansion filled with representatives of the rising generation, for a change, instead of representatives of the generation coasting downhill.

When people give Jacqueline Kennedy a bad mouth in my presence I do not pretend to give them silent approbation. I give them a fight. It's like this:

If I had a daughter I'd love to have one like my First Lady. So don't insult my daughter, stranger.

Liberties Shouldn't Be Subject to Arbitration

By JAMES MARLOW

From time to time Americans should remind themselves that the system under which they live is not that of majority rule but of majority government. The distinction between ruling and governing in our common parlance is not clear. But it means essentially that a majority, however preponderant, is limited by rights accorded to individuals which bear the name of minorities.

This principle has been created over many generations in the evolution of liberty. The most noteworthy development of this principle has been in Anglo-American life.

For it is recognized that an unreconstructed majority can be as fearsome of tyranny as the autocracy of a despot.

It is this principle that Lockheed has invoked in refusing to participate in the elections demanded by the administration in certain defense corporations on the West Coast.

The background is this: In the Lockheed company there are workers who belong to unions and other workers who are not union members. Over the years Lockheed has recognized unions as bargaining units in matters affecting pay and work conditions. These matters have been settled by peaceful negotiation. In fact, Lockheed has in the past agreed willingly to contractual provisions providing union security.

HOWEVER, the unions represented among Lockheed's employees made demands that elections be held in which a majority would substantially compel thousands of non-union members to pay union dues and assessments to the governing powers of the unions. This would mean what is called an "agency shop."

Technically, the non-union payers of dues and assessments might not be union members. Practically, however, it would mean that employees would be union members so far as such support is concerned.

In intervening in this dispute, the President appointed a "fact-finding board." The chairman of that board was Prof. George W. Taylor, an avowed exponent of compulsory union membership.

In the Taylor report it was recommended that elections should be held in the companies, and, if a two-thirds majority approved, all employees would be required to pay dues and assessments to the unions. The provision for a two-thirds rather than a bare majority was a concession, not to say a sop to the companies.

The President then demanded that the companies accept the findings of the fact-finding board, and more recently the Defense Department has indicated that economic retaliation will fall upon the companies which do not accept them.

That this retaliation can be severe is indicated by the fact that the government is the largest customer of those companies.

THREE COMPANIES agreed to elections, in which all failed to show a two-thirds majority favorable to the closed shop. Lockheed, however, refused to agree to an election.

Its position was that it would not agree to the use of economic force over 14,000 non-union workers.

Of the major reasons why non-union members do not want to make contributions—in this case, an estimated $1 million a year—is that union funds in these cases are used in political campaigns. In short, they do not want their money to be used in support of a party or its candidates that they oppose. These members claim that this is a violation of the right of a citizen to join and support a political party of his choice and also of his right to oppose and refuse to pay money to a party he opposes.

On this point the Supreme Court has spoken even through its most liberal members. Last year in the Looper case, which involved railway employees, Justice Black said:

"The stark fact is that this Act of Congress is being used as a means to exact money from these employees to help get votes to win elections for parties and candidates and to support doctrines they are against. If this is constitutional, the First Amendment is not the charter of political and religious liberty its sponsors believed it to be. . . .

"A violation of it, however small, is, in my judgment, prohibited by the First Amendment and should be stopped dead in its tracks on its first appearance. . . ."

IT WOULD seem that the President and his administration in taking a position in this case in violation of this principle enunciated by Black and the court.

It is this principle on which Lockheed chose to stand, and if political and economic liberty mean anything, Lockheed is right. Americans should never be willing to submit their liberties to arbitration. Nor to permit their liberty to be defined by a majority vote of any sort.

Matter of Fact

Silver is the most malleable and ductile of all metals with the exception of gold. One gram of pure silver can be drawn into a wire more than a mile long and it can be beaten into leaves of less than 0.00025 mm thickness. It is harder than gold but softer than copper.

Economists have been studying 1961 statistics and find that, although personal income increased, sales declined slightly. Breaking the figures down, there was a serious decrease in sales of durable goods, including autos 10 per cent below 1960, furniture 6 per cent to 8 per cent, electrical appliances 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Nondurable goods, on the other hand, showed increases consistent with the rising level of income. The decrease was explained by uncertainty about economic and international conditions.

So They Say

The fact is, many people live through their whole lives in comparative happiness and productivity. . . and never really think at all.

—Dr. Francis A. Cartier, authority on communications, saying we should stop worrying, start thinking constructively.

Thoughts

For through Him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father. Ephesians 2:18.

A man may go to heaven without health, without riches, without honors, without learning, without friends; but he can never go there without Christ.—John Dyer.

All In All, Quite An Evening

By VICTOR RIESEL

A strange band of comrades in arms gathered at the North Bergen, N. J. Cabana Club in very festive mood the other night. They would have been Damon Runyon's delight.

The scene was a teamsters' testimonial dinner to a local business agent, Sal Briguoglio, whose friends just don't agree with the crusading District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York City. The DA has had the guest of honor indicted on charges of extortion. But that is not the story.

Presiding over the gay 500 diners was one of Jim Hoffa's most loyal lieutenants, Tony (Pro) Provenzano, 12th vice president of the teamsters' fraternity. Tony Pro, who is also president of Briguoglio's Local 560, has two federal indictments against him. But that is not the story.

Brother Pro made a speech. That is the story. For in that speech to a crowd that included the personal representative of President James Hoffa, Pro took time out to praise Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) of California, Alaska and mighty strategic Hawaii.

THIS IS STRANGE. North Bergen is some distance from San Francisco, home city of the longshoremen's leader who has expressed himself so often as a friend of the Soviet Union and Peiping China. And who also so constantly criticizes the government of the United States.

Harry Bridges comes from the other side of the intellectual tracks from the trim, well-muscled celebrants at the Cabana Club the other night. Yet Tony Pro had this to say of Bridges:

"A reporter asked me earlier if there was anybody here representing Harry Bridges—well, I want to say I'm not ashamed to be affiliated with a labor leader such as Harry Bridges."

Tony Pro then acknowledged that he knew that witnesses before congressional committees had called Bridges a Communist. To this Pro said, "I know he's not a Communist."

"Harry Bridges is a true labor leader," Pro continued enthusiastically, "of American workers, and he deserves our deepest thanks as being a true leader and West Coast representative of that part of the country."

This was not lost on the representative of Bridges' union who had flown all the way in for the testimonial banquet. He rose graciously and responded with the gallantry of a gentleman from a London St. James' Street club.

THE CHAP from out of the West, Charles Duarte, an executive officer of Local 6, of the ILWU turned to his host and said:

"When union solidarity these days means less and less, it is a real pleasure to sit down where it really means something."

There certainly appears to be solidarity between the Pacific longshoremen and the teamsters —from Hawaii to this East Coast. It is important at this point to mention the support which the ILWU is giving Jim Hoffa on most fronts, including the legal one. The union's International Executive Board met in Honolulu several weeks ago. It went out of its way to pass a resolution attacking the United States, the Justice Department and other critics of Mr. Hoffa.

Referring to Hoffa's encounter with the government of the U.S., Harry Bridges' high council said: "The Justice Department is less interested in justice than in 'getting' Hoffa. . . .

"We protest their (Dept. of Justice) continued harassment James Hoffa. . . And, we further put ourselves on record to extend all possible aid and support to President Hoffa and the Teamsters Union so that they will defeat this latest attack on their union as they have defeated other similar attacks in the past."

APPARENTLY the Justice Department gets inverse justice from this vital waterfront union, which finds it guilty with no chance of being proved innocent.

All this was the conversation piece at the Cabana Club that night. This and a telegram which the toastmaster said he had received from New Jersey Gov. Hughes greeting the guest of honor. This did not sound quite right. So it was checked out.

The next day an aide of the governor sent the following telegram to the opposition group now running against Pro in the Dec. 14th Local 560 showdown election:

"Your telegram to Gov. Hughes . . . concerning a reported telegram of congratulations to the testimonial honoring Sal Briguoglio has been received. Neither Gov. Hughes nor this office nor Western Union in Trenton has any record of such telegram. We would be interested in any facts you might have concerning this purported communication. Feel free to make this information public."

All in all, it turned out to be quite an evening.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What does one say to children when they ask questions about an aunt who lives in a beautiful apartment, drives a new car every two years, wears elegant clothes, exquisite jewelry and furs, and doesn't have a job?

The truth is, she's the great and good friend of a rich old coot who is married.

Rita has a nice personality and always behaves like a lady. She is generous to her widowed mother and is always there with her check book when someone in the family needs help. I guess you'd call her a good egg.

But this doesn't alter the fact that she is a kept woman. Now, what do I tell my children?—STUCK FOR AN EXPLANATION.

Dear Stuck: Tell your children that Aunt Rita is good to her widowed mother, is always there with her check book when someone in the family needs help and that she is a good egg. This is all you know for sure—and it's all they need to know, too.

Son Needs Help

Dear Ann: When should parents stop trying to help their children? When they go away to college? When they become 21? When they marry? Is there a specific time when parents ought to let their children do exactly as they please without one word of criticism or advice?

Our son was graduated from the university four years ago. He now has a lovely wife and two darling children. This is the time when we should be proud of him but instead he's an embarrassment.

He used to be immaculate and a smart dresser. Now he gets his hair cut once in a blue moon.

His clothes never are pressed and he goes without shaving for days at a time. His shabby appearance breaks my heart. He seems to have lost all self-respect. As his mother, do I have the right to say something?—SAPHIRE.

Dear Saphire: Say something—to his wife. It's her responsibility now, not yours.

Personal appearance can be a barometer of daily pressures. The person who can't cope with problems often becomes careless about himself. Sloppiness in one who used to be immaculate may be a symptom of emotional problem.

Mother Is Problem

Dear Ann: An awful lot of teenage girls write and tell you they want to go steady but their parents are against it. Well, this letter is from a girl who agrees with you that going steady can lead to all sorts of problems. I don't want to go steady—but my mother insists on it.

She claims it looks very bad for a young girl to be dating several different fellows. She says it causes gossip and gives the neighbors funny ideas.

Just to satisfy her I went with one fellow for six months. Because I was dating him exclusively, no one else would ask me out. I finally decided to stop going with the octopus and I stayed home until other fellows became interested in dating me.

Again I'm having trouble with my mother. She wants me to go with one fellow, and only one. Help me, please.—AGING FAST.

Dear Aging: I don't approve of going steady and I've spelled out the reasons countless times but I don't approve of 14 fellows in 14 nights, either. It is perfectly respectable for a young girl to date five or six fellows, and I heartily recommend it.

London Heard From

Dear Ann: I was delighted when you told off that smart-alek, 12-year-old who signed herself "well-Mannered Girl!" She complained that dining at home was becoming unpleasant because her parents are downright cheeky to their mouths.

I was not born in this country so perhaps I have no right to speak but I am appalled at the number of American youngsters talked with food in their parents.

Since the 12-year-old seemed preoccupied with manners I should like to point out that a person of taste is satisfied that HE knows how to conduct himself. He does not pose as a model of perfection nor does he burden others with his display of knowledge.

The epitome of good manners is to make those around us comfortable.—LONDON OBSERVER.

Dear Observer: Thank you for a fine letter. Have you noticed that American kids are less cheeky than they used to be? The permissive approach, happily, is disappearing—and being replaced by old-fashioned discipline.

Confidentially

TO THIS TIME IT'S REAL: Real nothing, Toots. You can't build a life on a foundation of lies and deceit. Drop him.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Escorted by her father down an aisle whose pew ends were marked with salal foliage tied with white satin ribbons, the bride was gown in white silk faced peau de soie fashioned with a controlled skirt accented with crystal beads and silk peau flowers, and ending in a chapel train.

The long sleeved fitted bodice was graced with a notched Sabrina neckline, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her elbow-length veil of illusion was caught to a softly tucked peau de soie pill box hat.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: My washing machine has one hose to bring the hot water, and another hose for the cold. I used to turn on the hot water and find that I was holding the cold water hose over the tub or vice versa.

So I took my bottle of red fingernail polish and painted the end of my HOT water hose and the HOT water spigot. Now it's simple to pick up to correct one! Suggest that others try this. Sure helpful.

VIRGINIA CROTHERS. VIRGINIA: You are a doll! HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I make a "sponge" by stuffing several old nylon stockings into another one. My "sponge" can be used wet or dry and will not scratch. It's wonderful for dusting or putting a sheen on furniture.

MRS. J. A. HELOISE. Wow!

DEAR HELOISE: Try this method when you have to take your child's temperature:

Use a three minute egg timer and let the child watch the sand run through it! I keep my egg timer with my thermometer.

DEAR HELOISE: I want to share my hint on how to clean the collars of work shirts and house dresses. Wet the shirt in warm water, then spread a line of liquid hair shampoo on the dingy circle on the collar.

Drop this in your washing machine with hot or medium water and your regular soap. It's wonderful and will not fade colored shirts.

MRS. T. M. C. DEAR HELOISE: I do wish that you'd ask your readers to hint they have.

Perhaps some of them have old books which have been handed down through the generations and would be willing to share them with us.

Whether they are witty, out of date, or just plain absurd, it would give us a real kick and a few moments of laughter to just see what our grandmothers did!

PAUL. DEAR FOLKS: If you do have an old household hint book that was handed down through the generations, why don't you pick out one of the most absurd ones you can find and send it to us? This would bring a little laughter into our drab household daily chores. We need that lift!

I have a book, nearly 100 years old. For example it says:

"When you have a headache, cut off a piece of brown paper sack and dip it in vinegar. Wrap this around your head and pin it with a safety pin and your headache will immediately be gone!"

If you have an old book, send us its most absurd hint.

Since letters do not have to be signed to appear in this column, address this type of hint to HELOISE'S FUN, care of The Salem News.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a favorite hint of mine which works:

Many of us have damp basements or storerooms for our canned food and vegetables.

To keep mold from forming on the jars... wash the jars with a solution of vinegar and water!

CLOVER MENDENHALL.

DEAR HELOISE: Plastic ice cube trays in a jewelry drawer are wonderful for keeping earrings easily accessible and neat. Each pair can have its own little compartment.

LOIS S. HAMROCK.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

This And That

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
Julius Caesar pioneered the idea of traffic control by banning the parking of all chariots in Rome's central business district 2,000 years ago.
In addition to putting out the "no parking" sign, Caesar went along with a senatorial edict revoking the driving licenses of Roman women but he lost that battle. The ladies enlisted the orator Cicero on their side and he won them back their rights to drive.

Some 22 million Americans snore. All of them can't be husbands, but no wives admit to this fault. Mark Twain's comment: "There ain't no way to find out why a snorer can't hear himself snore."

If the ocean highway had been paved, Christopher Columbus might have made it faster to America on foot. He averaged about 2.8 miles an hour by sail.
A recent survey showed that if both parents smoke, a majority of their children will also.
Our quotable notables: "A man can be happy with any woman as long as he does not love her"—Oscar Wilde.

America in 1910 produced goods and services at the rate of $380 worth for each man, woman and child. Today the figure is $2,815, a vast increase despite the fact a dollar isn't worth now what it was worth then.
You have one chance in three of being involved in an accident if you drive 12,000 miles in a year. And the odds are one in 35 that someone will be hurt in that accident, and one in 1,300 someone will be killed—you or someone else.

Can you name four state capitals bearing the names of former presidents? They are Jefferson City, Mo.; Jackson, Miss.; Lincoln, Neb., and Madison, Wis.
The term "dumyankie" employed still with more or less affection south of the Mason and Dixon Line, didn't originate there. Canadians in the War of 1812 called their U.S. opponents "damn Yankees."

If you take your wife to Las Vegas, Nev., don't bring her there in moccasins. A survey showed that women could play the slot machines for only 2½ hours at a stretch when wearing high heels but four hours in flat shoes.
It was Christopher Morley who observed, "If you have to keep reminding yourself of a thing, perhaps it isn't so."

The New China News Agency reported a withdrawal of Communist Chinese troops in the Walong area at the extreme eastern end of the 1,500-mile border line. Walong, 15 miles west of the Burma border, fell to the Chinese in an offensive that subsequently carried them 80 miles down the Luit River valley toward the plains of Assam.

A dispatch from a Chinese correspondent in Walong said scores of peasants gave the withdrawing Chinese newly harvested sweet potatoes and bananas and "called down blessings on them."

Plane Lands, Searched After Bomb Warning

FORT WAYNE, IND. (AP)—A Trans World Airlines jet plane with 122 passengers aboard landed here for a 2½-hour search after a woman telephoned a bomb scare to the Dayton, Ohio, airport Sunday night.
No bomb was found. The jet, en route from New York to Chicago via Dayton, continued on after the search.
Authorities said a woman who identified herself as Ruth Malinski called the Dayton dispatcher and said, "I am to report a bomb on TWA Flight 25. It's in the air, isn't it? I did not put it on, but I know the man who did."

Auto Stolen Here Recovered in Wellsville

A car stolen Sunday afternoon from the Saxon Club parking lot was recovered by police in Wellsville about 8 p.m. Sunday, and the stolen car's three occupants were brought back to Salem and jailed.
The car was owned by Mrs. Joyce Ehrhart of 791 Prospect St. Arrested on charges of suspicion were: John Radsick, 42, of Canton, who police said admitted taking the car from the parking lot after parking his own car nearby; and his companions, Philip Bixler, 19, of RD 5, Salem, and Bixler's uncle, James Holderieth, 42, of 570 Vine Ave.

Columbiana Postal Hours Extended

COLUMBIANA — Extension of window hours at the post office for the Christmas rush has been announced by Postmaster Lloyd Crawford.
The windows hereafter will be open Wednesday and Saturday afternoon until Christmas and on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 16, from 1 to 5.
Seven extra clerks and carriers have been hired by the post office to help regular postal workers handle the heavy Christmas mail, Crawford said.
Hired on a temporary basis, the additional workers will be called into service as needed beginning Dec. 15. The extra postal workers were selected from the local available Civil Service list.
Postmaster Crawford urged residents to mail cards and packages early to ensure delivery by Christmas.

Taxes

years. It is these property owners, generally, who will see the biggest jump in taxes.
Building sites in allotments 10 years old or younger were in many cases up to now assessed according to acreage proportion, even though perhaps they were bought at city lot rates, $2,000 per 100 feet or so. Whereas tax on such property might have only amounted to $50 or thereabouts last year, it will be considerably greater now because the fact that sidewalks and other improvements have swelled the value of the property will no longer be ignored.
What is classified as a $10,000 property now (according to 1956 building or replacement cost) might have been classified as an $8,000 property last year (when taxes were still based on 1946 construction and replacement costs). Or maybe this year's $10,000 property was listed at $8,500, $6,200, $3,000 or some other figure in recent past years. The condition of the property upon reappraisal, and the number and kinds of improvements made since 1952 have bearing on the new evaluation.
Last year, property tax was computed thus: Fifty per cent of the stated value was found. If your property was worth $5,000, then the number 2,500 appeared on your yellow statement. If your property was in Salem, you paid $37.10 for each $1,000 mentioned on the yellow statement. (Rates vary from area to area in Columbiana County.)
This year as workers in the county tax office figure a statement for the $10,000 property (mentioned here simply because there are probably more $10,000 properties in this county now than there are any other kind, according to the auditor), the tax workers will first find 40 per cent (not 50 per cent as they did previously) of the $10,000. The number 4,000 will appear on the coming tax statement.
The tax will be based on 40 instead of 50 per cent of the property valuation because that will suffice to bring in the additional yield specified by the state, the auditor said.
Remaining to be announced yet is the precise amount to be paid for each thousand. County Auditor Bell expects that the new tax rate will be somewhat less than last year's $37.10.
Auditor Bell's office last week prepared proposed tax rates for the approximate 60 different areas in the county, and the rates are to be presented for approval by the Board of Tax Appeals in Columbus. The auditor expects to be able to announce the new tax rates before the later half of December, after hearing from state officials.
Remaining for Bell's deputy auditors, Miss Virginia Raney of East Liverpool and Miss Mimi Serago of Lisbon, to complete before the new tax bills can be mailed are two sides of more than 3,000 pages of tax records. Each page contains a listing of dozens of names, after which are numerous blanks to be filled in.
The tax rate must be known before all the needed information can be entered into the records been drawing up a proposal to amend the second resolution. The Latin Americans want the cost of peace-keeping operations assessed separately from the yearly U.N. budget, and they want the permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China—to pay a larger share of such costs than they do of the regular budget.

The United States pays 30 per cent of the annual U.N. budget but has paid nearly half of the cost of the U.N. Congo force. This extra contribution has been on a voluntary basis.

CHARGED WITH MURDER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joseph Schrader, 25, of Columbus has been charged with second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of 19-year-old Ronald E. Loring.
Police said the shooting early Sunday climaxed an argument between Schrader and his wife. Loring was killed by the blast from a 12 gauge shotgun.

Armelin

Mr. Armelin was a member of Masonic lodge No. 17 in New York City and Shriner, T.C.L., also in New York.
Surviving are his wife, Marinette of Salem; a son, Jean Pierre Armelin of Old Bridge, N. J.; a brother, Edouard and two sisters, Louise and Ginette, all of Paris.
Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Stark Memorial in charge of Dr. J. Paul Graham, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

peace moves.
The chief issue in dispute between Lockheed and the machinists is the union's demand for a union shop arrangement, requiring employees to be union members, provided the workers approve the idea by a two-thirds margin. Lockheed has declined to permit such a poll or be bound by its outcome.
The rail dispute has been a continuing one all year. The carriers are trying to abolish up to 65,000 jobs they claim are now obsolete. Still another White House board recommended more gradual reduction, originally confined to locomotive firemen. The unions have been resisting any layoffs.

Attempt To Break Into Club Thwarted

An apparent attempt to break into the Slovak Club, 313 S. Ellsworth Ave., was thwarted early this morning when a neighbor called police upon hearing noise made as someone attempted to pry open a window at the club.
The neighbor residing near the club reported at 12:56 a.m. that someone was "hammering and pulling nails" near the club building. Upon checking, police found a window on the south side of the club building broken. Nothing was reported missing from the club.

Handyman Can Handle Some Plumbing Installations

Bargain prices on automatic washing machines and water heaters at discount houses and some department stores may mean that installation, if available at all, is charged for extra.

"Normal installation" for a washer generally means fastening two hoses to two faucets—if the faucets are close enough and are threaded to take hose couplings.

Installing a new water tank in place of an old doesn't involve any new runs of pipe—just new joints.

Sweat Fit
With copper pipe in such wide use, installations by the homeowner are far simpler than they once were. You can join the pipes with simple sweat fittings of copper or brass.

You'll need far fewer tools than you would with iron or steel pipes since threading isn't necessary and cutting is not as difficult.

You will need a blowtorch, a hack saw with a fine tooth blade, a small half-round file, emery cloth, steel wool, solder and acid flux.

Many propane torches are inexpensive and they are plenty hot enough for the work you will be doing. The other items are things you probably have on hand anyway.

Bright Ends
It is important to have pipe ends bright, smooth and clean before soldering joints. After the pipe is cut to length, file away burrs that might be left and then polish the end thoroughly with emery cloth or steel wool.

Polish the inside of the fitting, too. Then apply the flux to this part and to the outside of the pipe that will go into the fitting.

Put the parts together and apply the flame from the torch. Moving the flame around will thoroughly melt the flux and cause it to run smoothly through the joint. Then heat the fitting itself. When it is hot enough solder will melt on contact with the metal, not the flame.

Solder Joint
Touch the wire solder to the edge of the joint. It will melt and flow into the joint. If it melts, but does not flow into the joint then the center of the joint is not hot enough. Sometimes it may be hot enough, but not clean enough.

If the solder is drawn in on all sides of the joint it was both hot and clean enough. Wipe away the excess solder and flux from the outside of the fitting with steel wool.

Building Permits

Building permits for two new residences and a small greenhouse were issued in recent days by City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff's office.

Don Santee received a permit to construct a $10,000 home containing five rooms and bath with attached garage at 1735 Jefferson St.

A permit for a $15,000 six-room house with one and a half baths and a garage at 1228 Jennings Ave. was given to Sam Rea Jr. Walter Deming of 725 S. Lincoln Ave. has been granted a permit for the building of an 8-foot by 14-foot, $400 greenhouse at his home.

Other permits were issued to Earl Orashen of 471 W. 8th St. to build a bulletin board at the First Baptist Church at a cost of $500; to Edwin Dangler of Teegarden Rd. to construct a one-car, $625 garage for J. T. Fitzpatrick of 1048 E. 9th St.; and to John Kandert of 753 Newgarden St. to put $1,300 worth of aluminum siding on the house of Samuel Brown of 970 W. Pershing St.

Paint and Time Are Wasted When Cheap Brush Is Used

You've heard and read this advice before, but it's worth repeating. When you buy a paint brush, buy the best grade.

There are several reasons for this:

A brush, like any other tool you add to your collection, should last you for years. A cheap brush will not. There's no economy in buying a new brush every time you paint.

Even more important is the sort of job you want the brush to do. Expensive paint and valuable time are both wasted when you use a cheap brush. An inferior brush makes good workmanship virtually impossible.

You will soon discover that you cannot achieve a smooth surface, that paint will not go on evenly and that brush marks result no matter how hard you try to avoid them.

Holding Power
Painters generally went for brushes of pure hog bristle, but these have been largely replaced by nylon bristles. The bristles are set in vulcanized rubber. The ends of the bristles in a good brush are flagged or split. This holds the paint until you are ready to apply it.

Don't worry if a few bristles pull loose in the beginning. However, shedding should not continue in a good brush.

The old advice about conditioning a new brush by soaking it in linseed oil applies to animal bristles, not synthetic.

Wide Variety

There is a wide variety of shapes and sizes from which to choose, depending on the purpose you have in mind. A good brush selection would be a flat wall brush of at least 4 inches, one of 3 inches and one of 2 inches for trim. If there's much trim painting ahead, get a two-inch angular brush. A very small camel's hair brush, such as artists use, is mighty handy for touching up.

It's a good idea to get a separate brush for varnish. While you can use a varnish brush to paint, never try using a brush

Thermostat May Be the Cause of Heating Problems

With the heating season upon us, this is a good time to consider the thermostat or thermostats in your home. Any trouble last winter? Stifling in one room while cold in another? House cold in the morning if you turned the thermostat down before going to bed?

It should first be pointed out, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, that any thermostat more than ten years old is probably obsolete by present precision standards, and is not as accurate or fast-acting as you have the right to expect.

If your heating problem has been one of extremes—a too-high temperature in one room in order to make other rooms barely comfortable—then zoning is the answer. A zoned heating system, especially adaptable to any form of hydronic (hot water) heating, has two or more heating "zones" supplied by the one heating plant, and a thermostat for each zone. Each area of the home can be just as warm or cool as you wish.

New thermostats are available with an integral timer—a clock that permits you to set the temperature you want several hours in advance. Thus, when you have lowered the temperature for sleeping, or during the day when no one is at home, you know your home will be comfortably warm again at whatever time you desire.

A further refinement in thermostat heat control is a special temperature anticipator device that is installed outside the home. This device signals the heating system of outdoor changes in temperature, thus adjusting the amount of heat supplied by your heating system to the need.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: There is a fence in our backyard which is beginning to lean over. Before it gets any worse, we would like to prop it up with stakes. Must the stakes be sunk in concrete?

ANSWER: If the stakes are to be 2 by 4s—or, even better, 4 by 4s—then a concrete footing is not necessary. However, place a flat rock at the bottom of each hole and rest the lumber on it.

QUESTION: We'd like to put up folding doors on a hall room closet. Is this a job we can tackle ourselves?

ANSWER: Folding doors operate on an overhead track and if you follow the instructions that come with them, you should have no trouble in installing them properly. Folding doors operate best when they are pushed gently at the proper height.

Small children cannot reach that height and are inclined to pull and tug at the doors, sometimes damaging them. If you have children, it would be wise to place handles on the doors.

a solvent or suspend them in a can of solvent. For oil paints this means turpentine, linseed oil or kerosene or a combination of them.

Never stand a brush in the solvent. Drill a hole through the handle so that you can run a piece of wire through it to support the brush so the bristles are just suspended in the fluid.

When finished, clean thoroughly, rinse several times and comb out the bristles. Wrap the end of the brush in paper or foil.

A Good Police Officer is a Good Citizen's Friend

A good police officer has a tough job and it's the good citizens who help to make his job that way. We should have better relations between good policemen and good citizens. We should do all we can to show our appreciation for their good work.

Most of their contact with people is with those who willfully and deliberately break laws and many of those people attempt to lead good police officers into temptation.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions And Answers

Q—What is cirrhosis of the liver? Is it cancerous? How long can you live with it if you take treatments?

A—With cirrhosis of the liver there is a general damaging of liver cells. They are replaced by scar tissue, causing the liver to be different types of cirrhosis with different causes. The Dr. Brandstadt most common types are those due to chronic infections and chronic heavy drinking. Cirrhosis is usually associated with deep jaundice and an accumulation of fluid in the abdomen. It is in no way related to cancer, although cancer of the liver may also cause jaundice and fluid.

Cirrhosis is serious. It indicates some underlying disease. How long a person can live with it depends on how successful his doctor is in finding and removing the cause. Early treatment is important.

Q—My parents are old and I would like to visit them. The distance is five hours by jet. A few years ago I had a nervous breakdown due to uncontrollable fears. I have recovered but I am not strong enough to make a 40-hour train trip. I have never traveled by air and I am afraid that five hours of panic would send me back to the hospital. Would you advise me to go? Would a tranquilizer help to overcome my fears?

A—Airplanes have become such a common mode of travel that it is strange to find anyone afraid to fly. Planes are used not only to transport well persons but also persons with almost every kind of illness imaginable. If such persons can fly, so can you.

It is true that some persons are killed in airplane accidents but these accidents are surprisingly few when you consider the number of persons who fly every day and the number of miles flown.

The accident rates seem worse because the accidents make headlines whenever they happen in any part of the world. Don't forget that some people are killed in their beds by hurricanes and tornadoes but I don't know of anyone so foolish as to refuse to sleep in a bed on that account.

Flying is such a wonderful experience that no one should deny himself at least one such trip. I have known persons in the past who were a little anxious about going aloft the first time who now would not think of traveling any other way.

I would certainly not advise relying on a tranquilizer to pull you through. Rather, I would advise that you study the casualness of your fellow passengers as you go aboard then get a window seat and watch the houses get smaller and the clouds come nearer.

If you drug yourself into a stupor, you will miss all this and won't know what wonderful experience you might have had. Seasickness is another matter. You can get the same kind of motion sickness on a plane but even this is not as common as seasickness.

Furthermore, your doctor can give you some pills that will prevent motion sickness if taken according to his directions.

Topics of Interest To Farmers; Notes About Meetings

Fruit Growers Hear Talks

Dr. B. A. Dominick, Jr., agricultural economist, speaking to Ohio fruit growers at the 31st annual fruit school at the Ohio Experimental Farm at Wooster this week, declared that there is room for both large and small growers in the fruit industry of the state and nation.

Dr. Dominick, of Cornell University, discussed costs and profits to fruit growers with high and low yields.

"Even with the ups and downs in the apple industry, growers will come out best... if they specialize in those areas in which they excel. This area is production. Get qualified men with experience to specialize in the area in which they excel, and this is in developing markets and selling the crop," he said.

"It's virtually impossible under the competitive conditions today, for a grower to do both jobs well."

He added that retail selling at roadside markets was one exception and might be one of the answers to grower marketing problems. But he said that the bulk of the crop would continue to move in other marketing channels for some time.

IN DISCUSSING grower profits, Dr. Dominick said that the area of management was one which each grower could do something about and see results immediately. "You need to work in management on your farms as individuals and in marketing as an industry," he said. He noted that studies had shown that production costs were similar for growers who made money and those who had lost money in their orchards.

In the studies there was a close association between yield per acre and net returns, higher yields drawing higher returns. Some growers with lower yields however, made money by watching costs, or marketing in channels where higher prices were obtained.

Further, Dr. Dominick told the group that each of them could figure their break even point... the point at which they start showing a profit. "It isn't a set figure for the industry," he said, "but it can be figured quite easily for each farm. If you know your growing costs, harvesting costs per bushel, and yield per acre, you can calculate the price you need per bushel to break even." He added that since growing and harvesting costs remained fairly constant on a per acre basis, management applied to boost yields or raise prices would yield quick returns.

ANOTHER VISITING LECTURER, Professor Donald H. Dewey of Michigan State University, discussed controlled atmosphere storage with the growers. He outlined the work being done to refine CA storage techniques and provide high quality apples to consumers over longer periods.

These storages must provide temperature, carbon dioxide, oxygen and humidity levels which will maintain high fruit quality during the storage period. Apples stored under such controlled atmospheres are marketed as "CA Apples." Because of their high quality, CA apples have been well accepted in the retail stores.

Experiment Station and University staff members presented other information on the many factors affecting fruit production. These included irrigation, spray programs for weed and insect control, the use of chemicals, diseases of fruit species, orchard management and marketing.

Dr. W. E. Krauss, assistant director of the Station, welcomed the visiting fruit growers at the annual banquet. Dr. Freeman S. Howlett, chairman of the department of horticulture, related some of his experiences while visiting in Europe during the past year.

Using many colored slides he showed the weekday activities as he visited with European horticulturists, and his weekends which were spent touring historic areas. During his trip Dr. Howlett gathered information and photographs for use in a course which he teaches on the history of horticulture.
